Providing credible, science-based information about vaccines—for our children and for adults—is both urgent and essential. Families deserve facts, not fear, and guidance rooted in evidence, not politics.

These conversations must happen everywhere—within our homes, from our pulpits and houses of faith, in our schools, and throughout our social and civic spaces. This is not the responsibility of one sector; it is a shared commitment across every part of our community.

When families are equipped with trustworthy, non-political information, they can make informed decisions about their health and well-being with confidence. We are grateful to the thousands of organizations standing with us across North Carolina, and we invite others to join this call to action—or simply help spread the word.

Faith and Community Leaders Across North Carolina

Re: “Building a Healthier North Carolina—One Child at a Time”

Dear Faith and Community Leaders,

Vaccines are one of the safest and most effective tools we have to protect children from serious illness. When we vaccinate, we protect not only our own families — but our entire community. From the beaches of the Outer Banks to the farms of the Piedmont and the mountain towns of the Blue Ridge, we’re meeting families where they are — in schools, churches, clinics, and community centers — to ensure every child is protected and every community is informed.

The purpose of this letter is to invite your congregation or organization to join our 2025/2026 Vaccine Awareness Program in North Carolina — Building a Healthier North Carolina—One Child at a Time.

This initiative is a collaboration between CARLDEN Inc., and key partners such as The COSHAR Healthy Communities Foundation and others, forming a Coalition of Community, Civic, Faith-Based, and Healthcare Professionals. We are united in ensuring that every North Carolinian receives accurate, evidence-based information about childhood immunizations.

Following the guidance of the North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Medical Association, and the National Medical Association, we are committed to protecting children and families from preventable diseases.

We invite you to partner with us in raising awareness and sharing credible information with your community.

How You Can Participate?

We ask each congregation, organization, and community group to help by:

1. Announcing the program during services or meetings (October–December 2025) and encouraging families to vaccinate their children.
2. Engaging your Health or Missionary Ministry to extend outreach to families and caregivers.
3. Hosting a workshop or information session on childhood immunizations (resources provided).
4. Sharing educational materials — flyers, e-blasts, social media, bulletins, or announcements.
5. Connecting us to local events where CARLDEN can partner to share information and resources.

When You Join the Partnership, You Will Receive:

- A digital information kit with flyers, fact sheets, and graphics for bulletins and social media.
- Sample announcements for your services or community gatherings.
- Resource links to trusted organizations and vaccine safety data.
- Ongoing updates and opportunities to collaborate with other North Carolina partners.

Thank you for joining us in protecting the health and future of our children. Together, we can ensure that every family in our state — from the coast to the mountains — has access to trustworthy information and care.

With gratitude,

Sharon Allison, MD
